The 3-Day Pause

The Glow Collection

Three days to pause, pray, and begin again

DivaglamKreation

Dear Creative Soul

You matter.

Not because of what you've been producing lately, or how well you've been holding it together. Not because you've earned a rest or finally "deserve" a moment to breathe.

Simply because you are here. And you are loved.

These three days aren't a program. They're a permission slip.

Permission to pause before you give any more. Permission to feel what you've been too busy to name. Permission to begin again, gently, at whatever pace your season requires.

There is no right way to use these pages. Come as you are. Write what's real. Let this be your gentle reset.

With love & intention,
DivaglamKreation

DAY 1

Pause & Check In

Before you can release anything,
you have to know what you're carrying.

Day 1 · Pause & Check In

How are you feeling right now — honestly?

What has been weighing on you lately (even if it feels too small to mention)?

What has your body been trying to tell you that you've been too busy to hear?

One word for what you need most right now:

Be still, and know that I am God. — Psalm 46:10

DAY 2

Release & Breathe

You were never meant to carry it all.
Lay it down, beloved.

Day 2 · Release & Breathe

What am I still carrying that I need to release?

What would it feel like to exhale— fully, deeply — right now?

I give myself permission to let go of:

A prayer or honest thought I want to offer to God today:

Come to me... and I will give you rest. — Matthew 11:28

DAY 3

Begin Again

His mercies are new every morning.

So are you.

Day 3 · Begin Again

Something I'm grateful for that I almost overlooked:

Something I'm choosing to trust God with as I move forward:

One gentle intention I'm carrying into the days ahead:

A truth I want to remember when things feel heavy again:

They are new every morning. — Lamentations 3:22-23

You showed up for three days.

That matters more than you know.

Whatever these pages held — the hard truths, the quiet prayers, the things you finally named — none of it was wasted.

You matter.

You are seen.

You are loved.

Keep returning to yourself.

Keep returning to Him.

Faith. Flow. Flourish.

With love & intention,
